What a Day!

Yesterday I was honored to have articles posted at Get Rich Slowly and My Super-charged Life. We didn't plan for both to happen at once but such is life. It is nothing to complain about, I just had to re-prioritize my week on the fly to support both.

As a result of this we had a surge of traffic and our reader base grew significantly. It was also a lot of fun interacting with such a large audience.

Welcome New Subscribers!

Our growth has been strong (38% growth per week). Add in yesterday's subscriber surge and we have a lot of new people. Since we have so many new readers I thought it would be a good time to introduce ourselves.

We started Wealth and Wisdom because we saw a gap in the market-we experienced it ourselves! We know that entrepreneurship isn't for everyone. That being said it can be the best way to wealth, a balanced life, and security. Also, many of the same principles apply whether you are an employee or the employer.

We were looking for one source that could provide:

- Business and entrepreneurial information and advice without hype or scams.
- How to build a business that supports the lifestyle you desire.
- How to grow as a person and become more effective.
- How to balance family, business, and your personal life.
- How to go beyond personal finance 101. Now that you are debt free and have a savings what do you do?
- How to protect your assets.

And Wealth and Wisdom was born...

Help us serve you better

We firmly believe a business should be focused on it's customer. Everything it does needs to support it's customers and make their experience better. This principle is what our blog and the companion website are founded on.

We welcome your feedback and suggestions. An active community is much more fun and productive. Your comments help draw out the finer points that may have been missed in the initial post. Your unique perspective can help show an issue from a different light. It also helps up develop to better fit your needs.
